

ELENA FUCCI

The winery was founded in 2000 in order to save the vineyards that surround our family home from being sold, those which were purchased by my grandfather Generoso in the 60's. For decades the 6 hectares of vines located 600 meters above the sea at the foot of Mount Vulture (a dormant but not yet extinct Volcano) were cultivated for the sole purpose of selling the grapes on the local market and beyond, to northern Italy. Selling the vineyards seemed the most logical solution as my dreams took me far from my native home, elsewhere in the world to seek my fortune. But my heart sank at the thought of the sacrifices my family made being sold off, so I utterly changed my plans. Concurrent with my studies at the University of Pisa in Oenology and Viticulture a new project was launched, one that would invest in our territory, staking everything on a single wine, TITOLO, class "cru" to best represent the characteristics of Aglianico and the unique terroir and microclimate of our area.

SCEG was born from the desire to help some friends of my grandfather Generoso. My grandfather is 94 yrs and has worked his whole life in our vineyards. His friends have grown up together with him and have vineyards nearby. At their age its very difficult for them carry on the vineyards, and their sons are away from our little town. These men have refused to sell the vineyards hoping that someday their children would change their minds and come home and then take over, but there was a high probability these vineyards would soon be gone. I had to do something...
