

CANTINA CALDARO

What is it that makes up the character of a wine? To understand the answer to this, first, it is necessary to ask: what is it that makes up the character of a land? With regard to winegrowing, we call that terroir, that is, a complex interweaving of geographic, geological, climatic, and even cultural and social factors. Every little variation counts. Climate, location, soils, and people form an unmistakable totality. And in Alto Adige, the terroir forms the basis for the potential of the great wines that are grown here: unique wines at the point of intersection of Alpine and Mediterranean vegetation and culture.

This is the land where Italy meets Austria. Cantina di Caldaro is a famous and historic producer of classically-styled yet accessibly-priced wines made from grapes grown in the vineyards surrounding Lake Caldaro, which is just outside of Bolzano.

The wines owe their bright and pure aromas, near-perfect balance on the palate, and fresh acidity to their mountainside origins.
